

JOHN P. MCCORMICK

Asset Management Executive
Yale Law School

Keynote Speaker

John P. McCormick is a leader in the asset management and broader financial services industry, with a track record of building global, innovative, and high-performance organizations. As Global Group Head of Blackstone Alternative Asset Management ("BAAM"), the $82 billion AUM hedge fund and asset management division of The Blackstone Group, John led BAAM to record financial results, with strong growth in revenues, distributable earnings, and fee related earnings. John was a member of Blackstone's firm-wide Operating Committee and all BAAM investment committees. He is credited with launching Blackstone's data science initiative and playing a leading role in the firm's move into democratized alternatives.

Prior to joining Blackstone in 2005, John was an Associate Principal at McKinsey & Company, where he was part of the firm's Financial Institutions practice. Prior to McKinsey, John led business development at a software industry startup, and earlier in his career worked as an associate at Davis Polk & Wardwell and at the U.S. Department of the Treasury. John holds a J.D. from Yale Law School and a B.A. from Vassar College.